

CATARRH A SERIOUS FAR-REACHING BLOOD DISORDER

Even in its early stages Catarrh is almost intolerable, caused by stuffy feeling in the nose, the buzzing noises in the ears, the constant "hawking and spitting," difficult breathing, etc. But when the blood becomes thoroughly polluted from the catarrhal matter, the inflammation extends to the bronchial tubes, causing hoarseness, and often an aggravating cough; the stomach is affected, resulting in dyspepsia, loss of appetite and strength, and gradually all the mucous membranes of the body become diseased and the system upset and deranged. Frequently the kidneys and bladder are attacked, and the constant passage of impure blood through the lungs, diseases these important members, and Catarrh terminates in consumption. Catarrh is a deep-seated blood disease, and must be treated constitutionally, for it is beyond the reach of local treatment. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all the impure catarrhal matter and at the same time building up the entire system. It goes down and attacks the disease at its head, in the circulation, and removes every trace of the impurity that is causing the trouble. Then as rich, pure blood circulates through the body, the inflamed membranes commence to heal, the mucous discharges grow less and finally cease, and all the disagreeable and disgusting symptoms of Catarrh disappear. S. S. S. has no equal as a cure for this disease. It refines and purifies the entire circulation and repairs the damage done by Catarrh. ### of Southern California.

Hill pepper tree is a native of Australia, but seems to be well adapted to the soil and climate. They have great clusters of crimson berries and long feathery leaves that are green the whole year round. The berries have a taste similar to black pepper, hence the name.

Riverside has a population of 13,000 and covers an area of 56 square miles. The main business and residential part of the town, however, covers but a little more than a square mile. The residents enjoy the benefit of practically all the water, light, and utilities, such as street improvements, etc.

Orange growing is the chief industry of this section. I think a well kept orange grove, loaded with its golden fruit, is one of the prettiest sights I have ever seen. From the top of Rubidoux mountain just west of the city one can see 10,000 acres of oranges, in fact the entire city looks like one vast orange grove. The picking and packing season has just fairly opened, and from now till June 1 thousands of car loads of the delicious fruit will be shipped out of this valley to eastern markets. If they net the grower as much as a dollar a box, he is well satisfied.

The climate of southern California is, of course, the chief attraction of the country. Conjure up, if you will, a memory of the most perfect day in May, when sunshine, gentle breezes, the fragrance of flowers and smiling nature all combine to make the heart glad, and you have some idea of the climate of southern California at this time of the year. If I should say that we can go out and pick oranges and flowers in full view of the snow-covered mountains, only a few miles away, perhaps some of my friends in Paducah would be inclined to doubt the statement; but such is the case.

Riverside is more favorably located than many California towns; it has an elevation of about 900 feet above sea level, high enough to be above the damp air and fogs of the coast towns and so well protected by mountain ranges from cold winds and "northers" as to be safe from freezing weather. On account of the favored location, many people suffering from throat and lung trouble come here from the east to seek relief in this dry atmosphere and local sunshine. On the advice of warm-hearted people, thousands of these people have been getting as well as possible from the open air treatment.

There is a place and a few Chinese, and a population, however, is not as large as it is in the towns not on the coast. The Japs are an honest and economical people, but many of them send money to relatives in Japan after they have secured tated a competence, they return home to spend the balance of their days.

WITH BROKEN NECK, DIES OF CONSUMPTION.

The puzzle of Milwaukee physicians, Michael Quigley, is dead from consumption. For the last five years Quigley has lived with his neck broken. He was able to coil himself in a wheel chair and to walk with little or no support. Physicians who attended him say that he might have lived to a ripe old age if he had not fallen prey to consumption.

Five years ago Quigley fell from a hayloft in a barn and struck with his back on the curb of a manger. Several small bones immediately protecting the spinal cord were broken. The cord itself was so compressed at the point of fracture that all circulation was cut off.

The operation on the man was delayed for three weeks because of his own protests. Dr. T. G. Walsh, who then operated, was able to relieve the pressure on the spine so that the man regained partial control of his lower limbs.

Two months ago, when his tubercular ailment had reduced him beyond hope of recovery, he was taken to the county hospital, where he died.
